

Fatma MARIHProject Coordinator (Conservation and Laboratory) | February, 2014*- Presentfm@iccrom.org

Fatma is currently working as Project Specialist (Conservation and Lab Coordinator) at ICCROM-ATHAR Regional Conservation Centre in Sharjah. She holds a PhD degree in Archaeological Science from the Institute of Archaeology at University College London in 2008. In 1998, she received her Master's degree in Applied Science related to Archaeology from the Institute of Archaeology and Anthropology at Yarmouk University in Irbid, Jordan, and completed her undergraduate studies in Archaeology in University of Jordan in Amman in 1990. In 1998, she was a graduate intern at The Antiquity Conservation Department of the J. Paul Getty Museum in Los Angeles.

She previously worked as Manager of the Conservation and Restoration Unit at the Jordan Museum in Amman, Jordan, from 2008 until the end of 2013. She also worked on different conservation projects with several expeditions in Jordan from 1992 to 2003, treating different archaeological objects including ceramic, glass, mosaic, metals, and papyrus. In addition, she worked as a consultant for different conservation projects managed by UNESCO, mainly implemented in the Arab region.