

Sherin Sahouri graduated from Aristotele University of Thessaloniki, Greece, with a Bachelor in Architecture degree in 2004. Since graduation, she has worked in one of the most prestigious architecture and design companies in Palestine for four years. After obtaining her Masters in Conservation and Restoration from al Quds University in Palestine in 2010, she has started working in the Palestinian Department of Antiquities and Cultural Heritage as the Head of Restoration Department for another four years, where she gained high level of experience in the various conservation and restoration projects, leadership skills, presentations, coordination with the various members of a working group and conveying knowledge and information effectively.

She has three internationally published articles and studies, one in ICCROM's Protecting Cultural Heritage in Times of Conflict, after having participated in ICCROM's First Aid to Cultural Heritage in Times of Conflict Course, while the other two in the Journal of Eastern Mediterranean Archaeology and Heritage Studies published by Pennsylvania State University and in PCP Forum - Journal for Protection of Cultural Property.

Sherin Sahouri has worked as a Consultant Architect for ICCROM-ATHAR Regional Conservation Centre in Sharjah from September 2014 to present. She was appointed also as a Consultant for the Department of Culture and Information in Sharjah, with whom she has been working since February 2015 on the preparation of the nomination files to inscribe Sharjah as the Gateway to Trucial States on the World Heritage List.

Sherin Sahouri has ten years of experience working on various projects in construction of commercial and residential buildings, heritage and conservation, restoration of historical and archaeological sites, landscape and interior design, policies and strategies development as well as project management.