

“Conservation and Management of the Built Heritage” in Hebron

ICCROM-ATHAR in partnership with the Old City of Jerusalem Revitalization Program (OCJRP)/Taawon and Hebron Rehabilitation Committee have launched a Core Course titled “The Conservation and Management of the Built Heritage in Hebron”. The course was held between 20th of March until 25th of May 2017.

Mr. Christian Biggi, the representative expert from ICCROM-ATHAR, has started the theoretical part. He introduced the levels of intervention and the values while working with Historic buildings. He also introduced to participants the group seminar (practical teamwork exercise); which they worked on it along the course, and he has been part of the Technical Jury that was held for the evaluation and assessment of the group work seminars.

9 international and local experts participated in the training by tackling various subjects.

It is worth mentioning that the partnership between ICCROM-ATHAR and Taawon -OCJRP is towards improving the quality and knowledge sharing in the fields of cultural and natural heritage protection, preservation and management.

This course offered capacity building and applied training for engineers, architects, contractors, practitioners and professionals who work in the preservation of architectural heritage field.
